HOMARI AOKI: Hello and welcome back to the Grid

Resilience State and tribal Formula Grant application assistant series. This video will cover forms. For this application, several different forms must be completed. Grant application forms can be found under the Grant Application Forms and Template section of the NETL Grant website. You can use the QR code on the screen to open up the website or paste the URL code into the web browser to get to the grant application forms.

If you are already on the Grid Resilience State and Tribal Formula Grant website that any NETL has, then you can look on the bottom of the screen for the Grant Application Forms and Templates button to access the forms. Clicking on the Grant Application Forms and Templates button will bring you to the files. Application forms are listed on this web page and can be downloaded. You can either download each file individually or download a zip file of all the documents. Additional instructions are listed on the website.

There are seven documents that are required with two additional optional documents. You can refer to Section 4. Clicking on the Grant Application Forms and Templates button will bring you to the files. Application forms are listed on this website and can be downloaded. You can download each file individually or download a zip file of all the documents. Additional instructions are listed on the web page.

There are seven documents that are required with two additional optional documents. Section 4 of the ARLD, Response and Application Information provides a list of the required documents. Some forms may have expiration dates that have already passed. Applicants may still use the forms that are listed on the NETL webpage. Standard federal forms listed on the grant webpage may have pre-filled sections that are specific to this grant. If the form is downloaded from the grant web page and has a section filled out in black text, applicants do not need to change the section in the form.

You may need to change how the files are opened if you're having trouble viewing the documents. Opening the files in a browser may cause an error and it's recommended to open the forms via Adobe Reader. Applications can also be sent to tribes if needed. Please send a request through the GDOTribalAssistance@hq.doe.gov e-mail.

For this Grid Resilience Formula Grant, there are seven required application documents and two additional documents that may be required if applicable. The first is the Program Narrative, which includes required sections. We do have a sample program narrative available on the website. There are some required sections. And a public notice and hearing will need to be conducted in order to develop the program narrative.

The second is the Designation Letter, which can either be a Head of Government Letter or Tribal Council Resolution, or any other letter designating authority. Third is the SF-424 or the Application for Federal Assistance. This is a standard federal form as well as the Environmental Questionnaire, which is also a standard form. The SF-LLL is the disclosure of lobbying activities, which is also required. It is a general form required by all federal funding. Then we have the Pre-Award Information Sheet and the Cost Match Information Sheet. Two optional documents are the Cost Match Commitment Letter and the FFRDC/NL Contracting Officer authorization. I will go more into detail with each of these documents on later videos.

Signatures on the grant documents can either be electronic, or they can be printed, signed by ink, and then scanned or mailed in. Acknowledgement of award documents by the grantees authorized representatives through electronic systems such as Fed Connect that are used by the Department of Energy, constitutes the grantees acceptance of the terms and conditions of the award.

That concludes the section on forms and where to find them. I will go into detail of each of these forms in
